Things to do in Helsingør and surroundings

Helsingør

Kronborg Castle, the home of Hamlet

This castle is very close to the conference venue (walking distance). It has a very strategic position along the Øresund. A walk around the castle offers nice views on Sweden.

Humblebæk

Louisiana, Museum of Modern Art

Louisiana is the museum of modern art in Denmark. It is the best visited museum and it has a nice garden and restaurant with a nice view on the Øresund.

Louisiana can be reached by train from Helsingør. Take the train to the south towards Copenhagen and leave the train at Humlebæk. From Humlebæk station it is about a 1.5 km walk. You can also take the bus 388. This bus holds directly in front of the museum (bus stop: Louisiana, Humlebæk Strandvej)

Fredensborg

Fredensborg Palace and Fredensborg Palace Gardens

This castle is the summer residence of the queen of Denmark. The gardens are open for public.

<http://www.kongeligeslotte.dk/en/palaces-and-gardens/fredensborg-palace-and-palace-gardens.html>

Fredensborg is towards the southwest and easy to reach from Helsingør. The regional train (lokalbane 930R) is probably the fastest way to reach Fredensborg.

Hillerød

Frederiksborg Castle and Castle Gardens

This castle lies in the heart of Zealand in the city of Hillerød, the capital of the region. The area around Hillerød has the largest forest in eastern Denmark.

Hillerød is easy to reach from Helsingør. The regional train (lokalbane 930R) is probably the fastest way to reach Hillerød. A good alternative is the regional train (lokalbane 940R). This is not the fastest way, but certainly a nice way crossing the major forest of northern Zealand.

Dronningmølle

Rudolph Tegnens Museum

This museum has a lot of statues.

<http://www.rudolphtegner.dk/english.aspx>

Dronningmølle lies along the northern shore and the museum is about 1.5 km from Dronningmølle station. It is easy to reach from Helsingør (16 km) by train (lokalbane 940R).

Hornbæk and Gilleleje

Hornbæk and Gilleleje are two small harbors on the northern Zealand coast, west from Helsingør. Both villages are easy to reach by train (lokalbane 940R).

Helsingborg, Sweden

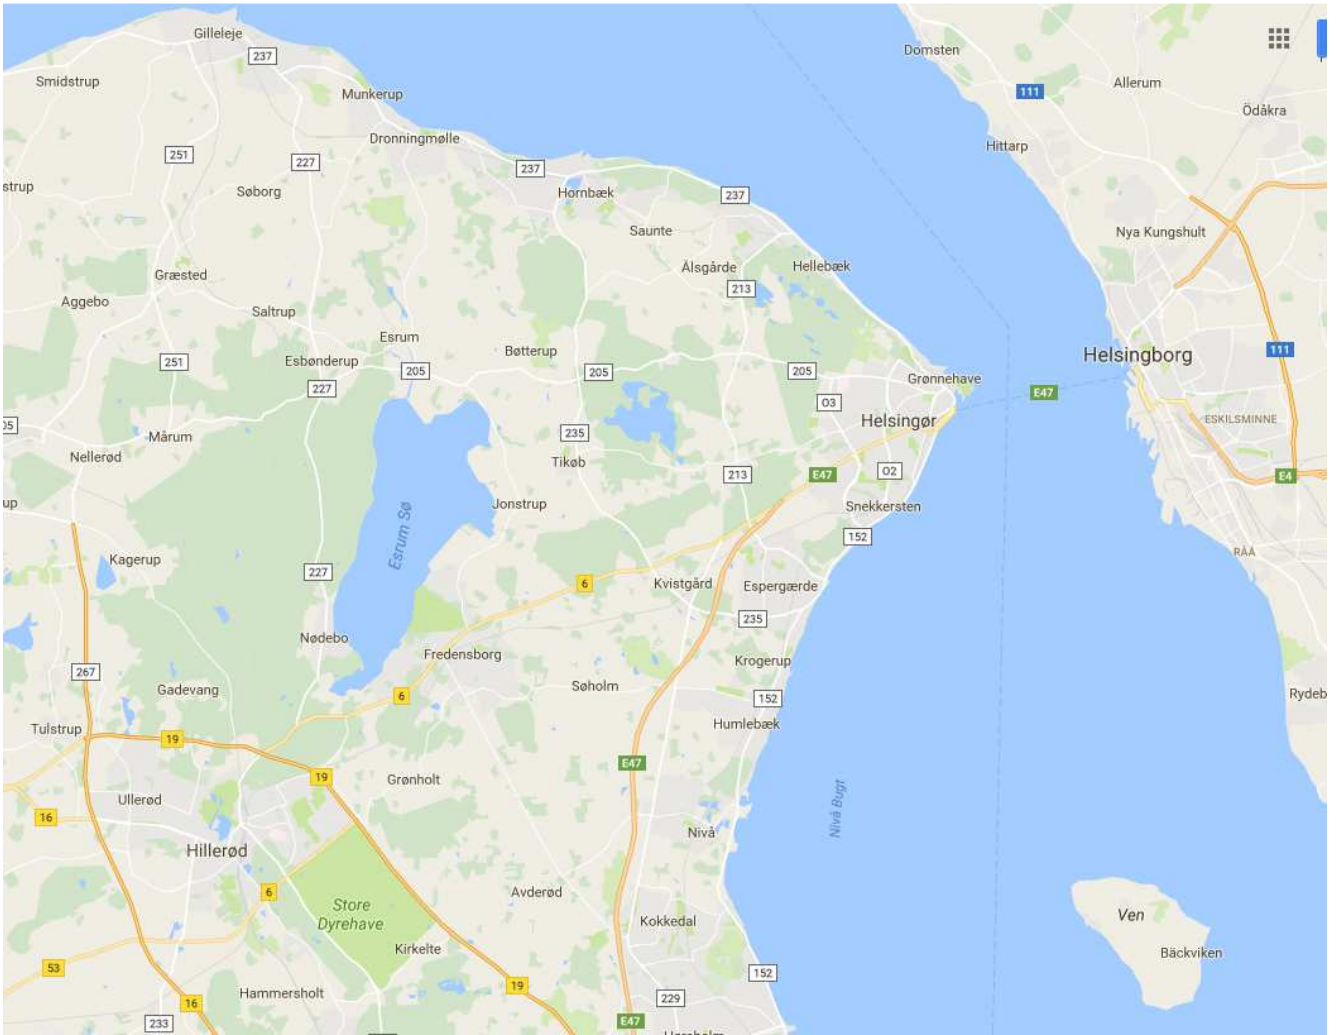

A visit to the city of Helsingborg is easy to make. Just take one of the ferries from Helsingør and you're within 30 minutes on the other side of the Øresund.
